

The Fulbright Scholars are brought in by the Fulbright Hong Kong General Education Program, which supports the development of broad-based general education in the liberal arts in Hong Kong's universities. These scholars have a strong passion and extensive experience in general education for undergraduates.

Brief Biography of the Fulbright Scholars Visiting HKUST on November 19, 2009

Dr. David A. Campion is Associate Professor of History at Lewis and Clark College in Portland, Oregon.

Born in Spain, Campion has a BA from Georgetown and MA and PhD degrees from the University of Virginia. An historian of the British empire, Campion has been active in general education issues at Lewis & Clark, a prominent liberal arts college in Oregon.

He is hosted by the HK Baptist University.

Dr. Joseph Chaney is Director and Associate Professor of English at Indiana University South Bend.

His BA in English literature is from Beloit College in Wisconsin, and his MA and PhD, also in English, are from UC/Irvine. Chaney was Director of General Education at the Indiana University South Bend from 2004-09.

He is hosted by the General Education Unit of the Chinese University of HK.

Dr. Hedley Freake is Professor of Nutritional Sciences in the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources at the University of Connecticut -- Storrs.

Born and educated in the UK, Freake has an BA in Nutrition and PhD in Physiology. He has headed the General Education Oversight Committee and launched a new GE program for the U of Connecticut emphasizing global competencies for undergraduates.

He is hosted by the HK Polytechnic University.

Dr. Gray Kochhar-Lindgren is Director of University Studies and Programs, Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences, University of Washington at Bothell.

He has a PhD in Interdisciplinary Studies from Emory U in Atlanta. He heads a unique academic program for all first-year students emphasizing learning communities and campus-community partnerships at the new UW-Bothell campus north of Seattle.

He is hosted by the HKU.

Dr. David Pong is Chairman of the History Department at the University of Delaware.

Pong was born in HK and educated in London to the PhD in Asian history, with emphasis on 19th century China. At the U of Delaware, Pong created interdisciplinary courses for freshmen, served on the university GE committee, and led the creation of a comprehensive first year experience program including service learning, and a capstone course.

He is based in the History Dept and the Centre for East Asian Studies at CUHK, while also collaborating with the General Education Office and with the Fulbright team on GE on developing general education in HK.
